

High-Speed Service on Trial

Bellingham 50 Minutes Away

Hydrofoil Ferry Here in August

Four Trips Daily At Start

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

An experimental hydrofoil ferry service which will bring Victoria's Inner Harbor within 50 minutes of the Washington city of Bellingham is to go into effect Aug. 1.

The hydrofoil, of Italian design and manufacture, will move at over 40 knots, and is being operated by Seattle, Bellingham and Victoria interests.

Victoria terminal for the new service will be a new dock at the Esquimalt end of Johnson Street bridge, owned by Harbor Marine Co., which is the Canadian representative of the operating company, Hydrofoil Development and Operating Corp.

APPLICATION MADE
A spokesman for Harbor Marine told The Daily Colonist yesterday that an application was being made to the department of transport at Ottawa for a ferry permit to run between Bellingham and Victoria.

He said no difficulties were anticipated as hydrofoils were an acknowledged form of water transportation and had been used in various parts of the world with great success.

FULL SPEED
Tests made on the 60-foot vessel, which will be used initially between Bellingham and Victoria, show it can operate at full speed in waves up to six feet high. When waves get higher than that the speed has to be reduced so that the hull of the boat comes down to water level.

At full speed the body of the ship moves above the water.

ROUND TRIPS
"The service initially will be three or four round trips a day," said the Harbor Marine spokesman, "and it will be a daylight only service for a start."

Providing the initial service is a hydrofoil chartered on a three-month agreement from H. M. Tiedemann and Co. of New York. Known as the Flying Fish, this hydrofoil has been operating between the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Atlantic coast.

ARRIVES SOON

It is at present being moved by ship from Puerto Rico and is expected to arrive at Seattle within the next two weeks.

If the three-month trial service is successful, the operating company plans to build several more larger hydrofoils of Italian design in west coast plants. They would be of 104-foot length and would carry about double the number of passengers.

BUILT HERE?
It was stated that the new ships to be built under licence might be constructed in Seattle or Victoria yards.

"We feel that the link between Bellingham and Victoria may be only the start to a revolutionary new ferry service in the Puget Sound and B.C. coastal area," said the spokesman.

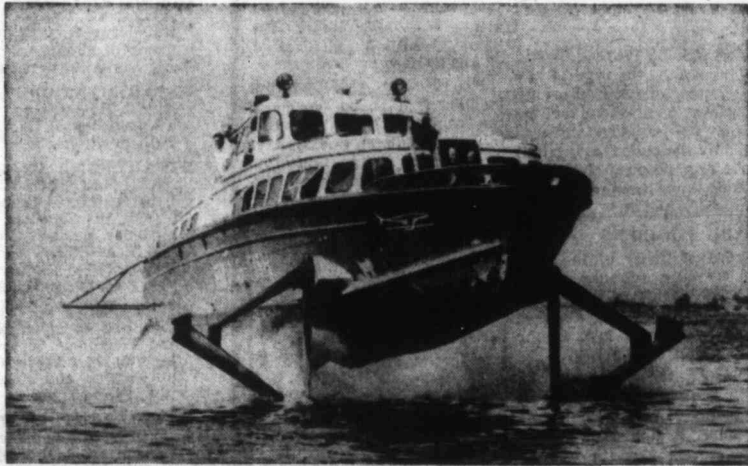

SEATTLE LINK

"Using the Victoria-Bellingham route, Seattle would be within 2½ hours transportation time of Victoria," he added. "A direct trip between Victoria and Seattle by hydrofoil could be made inside two hours."

The route to be used will be by Trial Island to the southern tip of Lopez Island, and then past Fidalgo Island through the pass between Cypress and Guesmos Islands and into Bellingham harbor.

Crew of the hydrofoil will be a pilot, an engineer and a steward or stewardess.

D. Murray Mason, west coast vice-president of Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co., said the Flying Fish fare would be about $2.50 for a single trip.

This is the 60-passenger hydrofoil now on its way to Seattle from Puerto Rico to go into service between Victoria and Bellingham Aug. 1. It will make 37-mile trip to Bellingham in 50 minutes.

Slim Hope for One

Gale Drowns Forest Youths

B.C. Forest Service officials last night were clinging desperately to a slim hope that one of four men thrown from a department boat at Stuart Lake may still be alive.

Bodies of three others have been recovered but only one had been positively identified early this morning.

One of the four youths, members of a forest service inventory survey crew, is reported to be from Vancouver Island.

Fined for Speeding

Flying Phil's Son Chip Off Old Block

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Robert John Gagliardi, elder son of British Columbia's highways minister, is following in his father's tire treads.

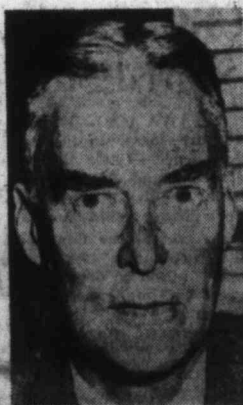

Robert, who returned here recently after attending university in Texas, matched dad's driving record Tuesday when he received a licence suspension and fine on his third speeding conviction.

"It was mom's new car," Robert explained to the magistrate after police testified he was clocked at 60 miles an hour in North Kamloops. "I've been driving a truck for the last three or four weeks and did not realize it was exceeding the speed limit."

The magistrate suspended his licence for a month and fined him $25.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi's three speeding convictions have earned him the nickname of Flying Phil.

CHRISTIAN HERTER
... takes blame

Japanese Feeling Misjudged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian Herter conceded yesterday that he and other U.S. officials failed to anticipate the magnitude and severity of anti-American riots that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

He also said the Eisenhower administration is abandoning high-level, personal diplomacy in favor of increased emphasis on old-style diplomatic association.

Under sharp questioning by inquiring senators, Herter said any incorrect evaluation of anti-American feeling in Japan stemmed from a "collective judgment" by top officials of the administration in which the White House concurred. But he said he personally was willing to take the blame.

Japanese Mobs Plan Force to Halt Treaty

TOKYO (CP)—Emperor Hirohito put the Imperial seal yesterday to the bitterly controversial United States-Japan security treaty soon after Premier Nobusuke Kishi's cabinet gave it final approval.

All that remains to bring the treaty into effect is for the U.S. Senate to ratify it and for the American and Japanese governments to exchange ratification documents.

Screaming leftist mobs, seeking to block the treaty, clamped a four-hour shutdown on transportation throughout Japan.

The planned time and place for exchange of the ratifications was shrouded in secrecy in an attempt to foil the premier's opponents.

Plane Hits House, Three Cling to Life

MONTREAL (CP)—Three men were seriously injured Tuesday night when their light plane crashed into a house at the east end of Montreal Island, and burned. It was not known whether anyone was in the house, which was demolished.

Real Estate Fraud Hinted

Investigation of the possibility of fraud in large-scale lower mainland real estate transactions is being undertaken by the B.C. attorney-general's department.

The case is said to involve more than two dozen companies which are reported to be operating outside the provincial real estate licensing regulations.

Unofficial estimates are that the transactions may involve close to $2,000,000.

The case could develop into one of the biggest real estate scandals in B.C.'s history.

So far no arrests have been made but investigators believe they are close to breaking the case wide open. They are studying records on a wide scale in their search for evidence.

Reports indicate that some of the transactions under scrutiny involve lands in the Ladner area and hotel properties.

Startling disclosures are expected by the investigators if they can obtain the evidence they are looking for.

An official of the attorney-general's department yesterday confirmed that the investigation is underway.

Nikita Reverses Peking

'Fools, Madmen Call for War'

New Pulp Mill For Island?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is reported to be negotiating with U.S. interests for construction of a major pulp mill on Vancouver Island.

A likely site for such a mill would be at Union Bay.

LONDON (CP)—Nikita Khrushchev Tuesday jumped into the growing word battle between Peking and Moscow with a forthright declaration that the Soviets believe war can be avoided.

"Whoever does not realize this," he said, "has no faith in the creative power of the working class and underestimates the strength of the socialist camp."

Khrushchev spoke in Bucharest at the congress of the Romanian Congress party.

His statements, quoted by Moscow radio, appeared to be another shot in the Soviet-Chinese ideological battle over whether war is inevitable in the struggle for world communism.

"Only fools and madmen can call for a new world war today," Khrushchev said.

"We have no intention of yielding to provocations such as the U.S. U-2 flight and swerving from the fundamental course of our foreign policy."

"This is a policy of co-existence, a policy of strengthening peace, reducing international tension and abolishing the cold war."

Youths Stole Cars To Put In Time

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 19-year-old youth described as one of a group "who spent their leisure time stealing cars" admitted in police court Tuesday that he stole 23 cars in the past four months.

Clifford John Timberley pleaded guilty.

Prosecutor Roland Rouwman said "It was not unusual for this group to steal three or four cars a night" just to put in the time.

MR. JUSTICE MACLEAN

Murder Trial

Truth Drug Troubles B.C. Court

NEW WESTMINSTER—Decision as to the admissibility of statements made by a man under the influence of truth serum will be handed down by Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean in assize court here today.

The statements were made by Garth Robert Allison, who is charged with murdering Harold Eugene Gordon, an Oakalla prison guard, last Nov. 16.

Defence counsel Alex MacDonald sought to introduce the statement Tuesday during the second day of Allison's second trial. The first was declared a mistrial.

Crown prosecutor T. K. Fisher objected when defence counsel asked what Allison had said while under influence of the drug.

"The danger of testimony of this nature," he said, "is that we may get only part of the picture of what happened."

NO MENTION

There was no mention of use of nuclear weapons stored in Canada by American forces.

Without a Canada-U.S. provision for American interceptors, to re-arm with nuclear weapons at Canadian bases, the U.S. planes would have to return much farther south to their own bases.

NOT FOR SAC

Informants said the government has no intention, however, of permitting storage of thermo-nuclear weapons at Canadian bases for the U.S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command bombers.

DOUBLEHEADER 'FIRST'

Twin U.S. Satellites Thunder into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The United States fired a complicated double satellite early today into a high orbit over Russia to make investigation on earth and in space more accurate than ever before.

The U.S. navy announced that the unique "mother and daughter" satellites separated as planned in an orbit that carries them over Russia and the Arctic and Antarctic. They will perform a variety of experiments—mainly as part of a program to give all nations an all-weather, global navigational system.

One satellite is a second transit navigation aid experiment; the other is for measuring solar radiation.

Defence Purpose Stressed

OTTAWA (CP)—Nuclear weapons for American jet interceptors likely will be stored at some Canadian bases, informants said Tuesday.

These will be purely defensive weapons similar to the nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile. They would be used only in event of an attack on North America.

FEARKE'S STATEMENT

Authorities pointed to this statement made Friday in the Commons defence committee by Defence Minister Peakes:

"At the present time negotiations are proceeding with the United States for the general use by Canadian forces (of American nuclear warheads) and the storing of atomic weapons in Canada for the use either by United or Canadian forces."

FIRST REPORT

This was the first announcement that nuclear weapons stored in Canada will be for the use of American as well as Canadian forces.

For instance, on Jan. 18 this year, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said "nuclear weapons will not be used by the Canadian forces except as the Canadian government decides and in the manner approved by the Canadian government."

FACE TAXES

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—The U.S. treasury department announced Tuesday it will take action to collect "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in federal liquor taxes evaded by at least 1,000 naval officers engaged in rum-running from Cuba aboard U.S. military planes.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"Won't you do something to rid church choirs of ladies who are too old to sing?" asked a visitor to the office.

"Do you think I'm crazy?" I demanded. "In this town? At least 50 per cent of the readers are ladies. How many of them think of themselves as old? Mature, maybe, never old."

"How many of them think of themselves as too old for anything?" I continued. "They may feel that they are too dignified to go dancing, or not exactly the right shape for the London Look."

"But to say that they're too old to sing—wow!"

The visitor would not accept my viewpoint. "What about the people who have to listen to them in church," he said. "Shouldn't they be considered first?"

"If they want entertainment, they can watch television," I suggested.

"The choirs should be pleasant to hear," my visitor said. "Past a certain age, the voice loses its quality, that's all."

Another's Dirty Work

"Then let the people in the church tell them about it," I suggested. "Let their best friends tell them. Why should I take over someone else's dirty work?"

"You have a public duty," the man said.

"Nothing doing," I said. "You want me to offer a gratuitous insult to 25 per cent of my readers?"

"You should have courage," the man said.

Reduce Bomb Toll

Two Victoria lads were seriously injured recently by a home-made bomb.

Thousands of other boys and girls have lost their eyes, hands or lives by playing with explosives. Optimist clubs and South Vancouver Island Rangers are trying to reduce the toll.

They are collecting money to make a safety film, which will be shown in the schools each year. The film will show the death-dealing powers of gunpowder, blasting caps, ammunition, old war bombs and other, quite innocent-seeming objects.

More money is needed to make the film possible. Optimists and Rangers are selling $1 associate memberships, and are also seeking outright contributions, which may be addressed to A. E. Moutant at 1874 Forrester, or C. H. Rennie at 3334 Telegraph Bay Road.

Budworm Plague

B.C. Plans 'War' To Save Forests

Aerial spraying designed to save close to $1,000,000 worth of Queen Charlotte Islands timber from a massive budworm infestation will start within a few days.

The spray program will be B.C.'s first large-scale test of a weakened DDT solution, which is designed to be strong enough to kill budworms but not strong enough to kill fish.

MAIN OPERATION
Effects of the weakened solution on fish will be assessed by the federal fisheries department before the main Queen Charlotte Islands operation starts, the B.C. Forest Service announced yesterday.

The operation is being undertaken by the pest control committee of the B.C. Loggers' Association, with the co-operation and assistance of the federal departments of agriculture and fisheries, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., Rayonier of Canada Ltd. and the provincial government.

LUSH FOREST
Surveys indicate the black-headed budworm infestation is widespread over the Queen Charlottes, the forest service said, and is concentrated in a 30,000-acre area on the north-east corner of Moresby Island where some 150,000,000 board feet of lush hemlock-spruce forest is under threat of destruction.

The spray, to be spread by a chartered Grumman Avenger aircraft, will contain 4 pounds of DDT per gallon and will be spread at a rate of one U.S. gallon per acre. Some 30,000 gallons will be used.

SECOND TEST
Early in July a second test will be carried out using a bacterial insecticide instead of DDT.

Bacterial control has never been used before against forest insects, forest officials say, and may have the advantage of a high degree of selectivity and be non-poisonous to fish.

The spray, to be spread by a chartered Grumman Avenger aircraft, will contain 4 pounds of DDT per gallon and will be spread at a rate of one U.S. gallon per acre. Some 30,000 gallons will be used.

Bid for Car Tariff Worries British

LONDON (CP) — Britain made it known yesterday that it would be "very disturbed" if Canada took any steps that would restrict sales of British cars in the Canadian market.

Reginald Maudling, president of the board of trade—a government department—expressed the British view during a press conference following his return from a month-long tour of Canada and the United States.

The trade chief was commenting on reports that the Canadian automobile industry had asked the federal government to impose tariffs on British car imports.

"I saw Prime Minister Diefenbaker and some of his ministers and I made it known to them how very disturbed we should be if any barriers were put up against our exports," he said.

Magistrate Knows Law If Not Cattle

Whether the court knows anything about cattle isn't the point, Magistrate William Ostler told Saanich dairy farmer T. Byron MacNutt, 4149 Grange, in Saanich police court yesterday.

MacNutt was appearing on his second remand after failing to comply with a federal order to destroy diseased cattle. Three of his cows had brucellosis.

LEGAL DUTY

When the magistrate sought to point out it was MacNutt's legal duty to obey the order, the farmer said:

"You're speaking, if I may say so, about something you know very little about, while I've spent 30 years with cattle."

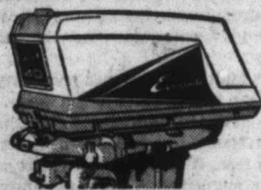

Replied Magistrate Ostler:

NOT HEEDED

"I admit I know little about the general subject, but anyone can understand you have three cows suffering from an infectious, incurable disease, and you have not heeded an order of many months' standing to destroy them."

MacNutt, who had won one remand to get further information from the federal agriculture department, said he realized the animals had to be destroyed and was negotiating with a buyer for that purpose. He was remanded to Thursday for sentence.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

Royal Story

Duke's Hope for Oil Ended in Dry Hole

NEW YORK (CP) — The Duke of Windsor says his hopes for an oil strike in Alberta ended in a dry hole.

Writing in McCall's magazine of various incidents from childhood to the present, he says:

"Although I have made it a practice never to discuss business affairs publicly, one has been the subject of publicity—our ranch in Alberta, whose primary purpose is the raising of beef cattle."

"Some years ago, it was publicized we were drilling for oil there. The end of the story went untold. Oil was drilled for, but the result was a dry hole."

He also tells of one embarrassing episode in Australia years ago.

"The prime minister waved a hand toward the end of the room and said to me, 'That is my son.' Seeing two men standing there, I singled out the one in evening dress and shook hands with him. He turned out to be a waiter."

'Ignorant Guttersnipe'

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Three minutes of vicious name-calling reached a startling climax in the legislature Tuesday when the three Progressive Conservative opposition members marched out.

Sparked by a debate on a government loan and guarantee bill, the exchange threw the House into complete disorder.

Albert Furey (PC, Harbor Main), who the Speaker later ruled had started the clash by "provoking" the premier, said he will call again for an apology when the House resumes today.

Mr. Smallwood, also in an interview, said he will not apologize until Mr. Furey does.

It was Mr. Furey's remark about Alfred Valdmanis, interjected across the chamber while the premier was speaking, that drew Mr. Smallwood's wrath. Mr. Valdmanis, the Newfoundland government's provincial director of economic development, was in prison. Mr. Furey's remark convicted in 1954 of defraud—was that Mr. Valdmanis once Justice J. O. Wilson was told of a contract award which entitled plumbers to draw air fare and travelling-time pay for a 500-mile journey and collect $5-a-day living allowance without ever leaving their home town.

"It reaches the height of absurdity," he said of the award made by an arbitration board to cover men building a

"Yes, and he went to jail," the premier said.

"It's lucky none of his friends went the same way," Mr. Furey replied without rising from his seat.

"The honorable gentleman," said the premier, "is an arrogant little ignoramus... who says nothing but ignorant, guttersnipe remarks."

Mr. Furey demanded an apology.

"Not until you apologize for that sly, guttersnipe remark you just made," the premier snapped.

De Gaulle's Courage

IT is somewhat ironic that acceptance of President de Gaulle's invitation to a peace conference by the Algerian rebel organization, self-designated by the title of "government in exile," should have intensified unrest in the city of Algiers to the point of necessitating emergency measures. The explanation is to be found in the firm resistance of elements among the French settlers, who make up about 10 per cent of Algeria's 11,000,000 population, to the adoption of a soft policy in relations with the insurrectionists.

Whether wise or not, this attitude can be understood when one reflects on what the French settlers have endured during the past 5½ years. In many cases their lives have been and still are in danger. Their investments and their future are tied up in the country which the French Republic rescued from abject poverty at their expense and that of all French people. In their view—and it may not be far out of focus—any concessions to the murderous, tyrannical rebel party while halting the current state of civil war could only heighten the danger to themselves and their property.

The history of the rebellion tends to support that prediction. Only last week the rebel "government" calmly announced that in a series of raids in the preceding week insurrectionists had killed 449 French soldiers and wounded 293 others. The rebels are indiscriminate in their methods of slaughter under a campaign of terrorism to deter co-operation with the French authorities; last year they killed 10,000 Moslems as well as 2,000 of French origin. Is it any wonder then that the French inhabitants fear for a future under the control of such barbarians?

Nevertheless the rebellion must be brought to an end somehow, and Gen. de Gaulle appears to have chosen the path of compromise, thereby removing from his strategy any taint of domination. The French government is not required under any treaty or code, nor is it under any moral obligation, to recognize or negotiate with the rebel "premier" and his bloody-handed henchmen because they have no official standing in Algeria where an overwhelming majority of the population, French and Moslem, is opposed to them. For all that, President de Gaulle is prepared to discuss with them means whereby peace may be restored.

In anyone else that concession might be put down to weakness. Gen. de Gaulle's character and record are such that it becomes the mark of strength and courage, and it is to be hoped that the outcome of the conference will reward him.

Woodward To Build

AS forecast in the Colonist yesterday, official announcement of the intention of Woodward Stores Ltd. to build a new two-storey department store in Victoria as part of the projected new shopping centre at Hillside and Shelbourne streets was made during the day by Mr. C. N. Woodward, president of the store, and by Mr. F. Maurice McGregor, managing director of Hillside Plaza. Mr. Woodward said that his firm would spend up to $4,000,000 in permanent construction of the new department outlet here which had been under consideration for five years. The existing Woodward premises on Douglas Street will be put up for sale when the new store is completed in 1962.

Mr. McGregor touched on the main features of the large composite shopping centre, other parts of which are expected to absorb $6,000,000 of a total $10,000,000 outlay for the centre in which selected stores will be invited to take space. The overall plan will include a large food store and other retail outlets, with parking arrangements for 2,500 cars.

This extensive development will be welcome for itself, as evidence of the steady growth of the Greater Victoria community. Shopping centres are multiplying fast in all environments of the community, but full scale development of a third department store will be an event of considerable importance. There may be some surprise at the Woodward decision to build outside of the downtown retail section of the city, but the firm has been following a policy of decentralization in western Canada for some years. The new store will be Woodward's tenth unit between Vancouver Island and Manitoba, and is expected to give employment to some 600 employees.

Although the combined new enterprise was announced on the eve of Victoria's mall and parking building plebiscite, it is not necessarily in conflict with it. If anything, here is further indication that the process of decentralization, with its effect on the centre of the retail area downtown, must be reckoned as a continuing factor. There will be the more need, therefore, to see that there is no slump at the core of the city.

In the Home Stretch

THE local Red Shield drive by the Salvation Army attained three-quarters of its objective this week, with $30,000 in hand and $12,500 needed before the books are closed. There is perhaps no welfare drive in the community which is stretched farther or does more good in the relief of human distress.

While the work of the organization is widely known, it may come as a surprise to some to realize its ramifications. During 1959 the Army through its rehabilitation centre, men's social division, women's infirmary, hospital and prison missions, and other contacts with the public provided immediate help for thousands of individuals, including strangers and transients.

Part of this consisted in providing 20,271 free meals to those who stood in need of them. Beds and partial relief were given in more than 11,000 instances. The Army acted as counsellor in 1,153 cases; and got grocery orders going again for 268 distressed families. There were nearly 14,000 visits to shut-ins and the sick in hospital; 349 attendances at courts and prisons; and much follow-up care furnished to ex-prisoners in their effort to rehabilitate themselves. Not least, 3,273 "treats" were provided in lives which perhaps had known few. That record speaks for itself.

Propagandists in Cuba

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

SOVIET Russia is not alone in the Communist drive to infiltrate Latin America.

Red China is in on the act, too, though cultural exchanges and through a number of the approximately 100,000 Chinese who live in various Latin American countries.

As with the U.S.S.R., Cuba is the focal point of the Red Chinese drive.

And Cuba has co-operated. Red Chinese leader Mao Tse-Tung, like Nikita Khrushchev, has received an invitation to visit Fidel Castro's anti-American showcase.

The Red Chinese campaign has been stepped up appreciably in the last 18 months.

Artists, economists, actors and others from most of the Latin American countries have been invited to visit Red China.

Some 20 "friendship associations" between Red China and Latin American leftists have been set up to show films, hold art exhibitions and to distribute Chinese literature.

Radio Peiping has more than doubled its broadcasts beamed to Latin America in English, Spanish and Portuguese.

In Havana, the Chinese have started publishing a daily newspaper, the "China Light."

With an estimated 25,000, Cuba has the largest Chinese colony in Latin America, followed by an estimated 20,000 in Peru, and about 10,000 in Mexico and Panama.

Peiping's propaganda line points out similarities between Red China and Latin American countries, with emphasis on U.S. "imperialist" designs on the continent's underdeveloped countries. It says that all suffer from the "oppression" of Western colonialism and calls for less dependence on capitalist markets.

There is no real measure of the effectiveness of the Chinese propaganda line. Economically, progress has been slow. But scores of economists and some Latin American business men have visited Peiping and have been promised good trading prospects.

"Honestly, gentlemen, I didn't know about this either—it's simply that Nuclear Missile Sergeant Ed Otis left his hamburger on the grill too long, and one little fire led to another..."

Fried Za-Zas

For the Gourmet

By CASSANDRA, from London

I HAVE always been an admirer of such institutions as Whitstable Oysters, the Warden of All Souls, the Forth Bridge, Scrambled Eggs as cooked by Sir Francis Wemyss, the radiators of Rolls-Royce cars, Mae West (the girl, not the lifejacket), Crookes' Dark Spaces (fun and games at the end of the spectrum—as if you didn't know), the Admiralty, Peach-fed Worcester Ham—and Harrods.

The Admiralty and Harrods have many things in common. They range from impassivity to adequate supplies of naval pink gin plus the fact that they both have the same impressive address which doesn't bother with trivia like streets or squares. It just says "London, S.W.1."

I was converted to Harrodisms some time ago after I had learned that in the TV age, when learning to play the piano is as popular as kite-flying in the Weddell Sea, Harrods still stock no fewer than 40 different kinds of piano.

I would like to think that they stock only one kind of Telly (complete with free sledge-hammer to make comments) but it may well not be so.

Last week they have come up trumps again. Harrods publish a bulletin called Food News and on one page, which deals with convalescent foods and meat and vegetable extracts, they have a final section which is headed: "FOR THE GOURMET."

It is magnificent—all mixed up as it is on the same page with pappy stuff for pale pink stomachs hemmed in by ulcers.

"FOR THE GOURMET" should be read to the accompaniment of a fanfare of silver trumpets—Ta-ra! Roasted caterpillars... 1½ oz. tin 2/6 Chocolate-covered bees, 2 oz. tin... 6/- Fried grasshoppers, 1½ oz. tin... 2/- Seasoned bumble bees, 3½ oz. tin 5/- Fried silkworms, 2½ oz. tin... 4/-

And finally "Seasoned za-zu insects" which sell at 4s. 6d. for a two-course tin and which must not be confused with "Fried za-zu insects." They are a bit special and cost 4s. 3d. for a one-course tin.

LADY ATTLEE was involved in her let me see, first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth car crash.

As in her eighth, seventh, sixth, fifth, fourth, third, second and first road accidents when she was not held to be at fault, Lady Attlee says that she was in the right again.

After she had explained how a stream of cars was approaching and one of them suddenly pulled out and bashed into the rear wing of her little car, Lord Attlee, who was with her, said: "It was damned annoying. We were not over the centre line at all."

I don't doubt that this is all quite true. But the insurance companies and the police must long ago have given up trying to fathom that statistical and psychological phenomenon in which every motorist is convinced he is in no way to blame, and over 6,000 people are killed on the roads every year.

Lady Attlee is a lucky-unlucky driver. Unlucky to be involved in so many smashes. Lucky not to have killed or been killed.

Excellent driver though she may be, it is quite clear that she is accident-prone. After being involved in nine of what Lord Attlee calls "clouts," she might well, at the age of 64, consider getting a driver to take her around—or letting Clem have a go at the wheel. He might be a lucky-unlucky driver.

The Premier's Journey---II

Expansion Plans for B.C. House

By RICHARD L. THOMAS
Daily Colonist London Correspondent

ONE of the features which impressed Premier Bennett most during his visit to London was British Columbia House.

He was particularly heartened by the great impression the agent-general, Major-General B. M. Hoffmeister, had created amongst the influential people of Britain. He was doing a magnificent job for British Columbia and under his leadership the staff were doing an immense amount of good for the province.

Mr. Bennett said that he had plans for expansion of the services offered by B.C. House and he hoped that it would soon be possible to take over some ground floor accommodation, at present rented, to improve access for the public and allow for greater display. "We have an immensely valuable site in Regent Street and I want to see it used to greater advantage," he said.

The premier said that over the years a tradition had grown up that British Columbia House was virtually self-supporting. At one time that was true. It was not true today because rents had not increased as much as costs, but he felt that there was a psychological error in allowing income from rents to dominate. A little lost in rental revenues may well provide much greater indirect returns for the province.

Today British Columbia House, for all its late Edwardian type of architecture, remains an impressive building. Recently it has been cleaned from top to bottom. Nearly half a century of London grime has been washed away. Floodlighting has also been installed and the result is impressive, but the least impressive thing about the building is the ap-

Commons' Wasted Time

By CLYDE BLACKBURN from Ottawa

IT has become almost obligatory to talk about waste of time in the House of Commons.

Parliament has been in session more than five months. Last week Prime Minister Diefenbaker, on request, listed the things remaining to be done.

It sounded like a speech from the throne.

At the pace maintained since Jan. 14, it would take two years to handle the remaining items—which are almost all the items originally planned for this session.

Time-wasting members of the House (by no means a majority) have the Commons on a spot now. Even a pretence of examining and properly weighing the various items facing them, would keep them here till the snow flies.

And that apparently is what they face. Mr. Diefenbaker said he felt the work could be done in "continuous session." That rules out the idea of a summer adjournment and return in the autumn. If he is against it, it won't happen.

Now the members who have deliberately wasted time for five months face a session lasting well into the fall. Or else a public admission that they are giving only a swift glance and rubber-stamp to important legislation, some six billions of money-votes and reports of committees which have been gathered at great public expense and individual effort.

They stay here till fall or admit all this is a sort of political game and the real business of dealing with public affairs can be compressed into a few days.

From the Scriptures

He shall send you another comforter, that He may abide with you for ever.—St. John, 14:16.

proach to the offices of the agent-general.

The former exhibition hall—still proclaimed on the name plate in Regent Street—has been subdivided to provide accommodation for a bank, a travel agency and a shipping company. The main entrance to the government offices is through the travel agency—which is probably good for business as far as the travel agent is concerned but a poor approach from the government's point of view.

Once upstairs great changes already are to be found. The main offices are now light and airy, but space is still limited. There is no spare office for visiting ministers or when the department of education has a recruiting session for teachers, and even the visitor's lounge—adequate for nine months of the year—tends to become overcrowded during the height of the summer tourist season.

It seems that these things were not lost on Mr. Bennett. He also plans to extend the influence of British Columbia in the tourist world now that dollars are easier to get following the relaxation of some of the British exchange controls. Obviously one of the essentials of efficient tourist promotion is ground floor access.

The day-by-day work of the agency, often unrecognized and unappreciated, is not unappreciated by the premier. Obviously he was more than satisfied with what he saw, and anxious to widen the scope of the office. He was emphatic, for example, that while it is obviously and dominantly a provincial government agency its sphere of influence must take in everything in the province and project everything in the province. In the last analysis everything affecting the people concerns the government.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

EVERY race and nation, every community of size, has its monsters. To flatter ourselves that an Eichmann could never rise in our midst is sheer folly. Our police records alone will prove to anyone's satisfaction that we have evil-doers of every known category right in our midst. We have ruffians, bullies, murderers, sadists, cruel, malevolent and sub-normal monsters the equal of any. We also have heartless con men, swindlers, sneaks, thieves and scoundrels who will sell their own mothers for advancement in the favor of their bosses.

What more was Eichmann than a cunning intellectual scoundrel of fantastic brutality who won his way into the favor of Hitler and Himmler by calmly undertaking the most monstrous enterprise in human history?

The fault of the German people lay in letting these monsters get loose.

We have the monsters. So has the United States, so has Britain, France, all the rest. It is to our credit that so far the municipality, the community, the province, the state, the nation, has consisted of a sufficiency of humane, hard-headed, decent citizens to make dead certain the monsters are kept in subjection.

But let us not kid ourselves that, given a break, native talent would not take us over as slick as did Hitler, Himmler, and the numerous Eichmanns, with Germany.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

"You must realize, my boy," the father told his son, about to be married, "you will have not only another mouth to feed, but a great big one to listen to."

"Who is appearing for you, my man?" a magistrate asked an Irishman in the dock.

"I'm appearing for myself, sir," said the Irishman.

"Are you pleading guilty or not guilty?"

"I'm innocent, sir. Sure, if I was guilty I'd have a lawyer."

Browsing round a bookstore the doctor found a large stock of a medical work for sale at a cute rate price. The book was over a thousand pages long, exceedingly dull, and carried no index. After purchasing the books, he sent them to his most egotistical medical friends—with a typed note which read: "You will be amused, although possibly slightly offended, by the references to you in this volume." The hunt is reported to be still going on.

Letters to the Editor

Civic Pride

A city with the reputation Victoria enjoys should not have to be persuaded to improve its downtown appearance simply because "it won't increase taxes."

Any city with a reasonable amount of civic pride would welcome such an expenditure purely for the increase in visual pleasure and enjoyment to be gained by those who shop downtown.

P. N. COTTON, architect.
636 Toronto Street.

Moving Backwards

I think city council is going about helping the downtown area backwards. There is no better way of driving business to the rural shopping centres than by doubling meter fees. I think it is a bad time to put our city a further $1,000,000 in debt.

G. R. JUNE.
334 Michigan Street.

Economically Sound

The Victoria Ratepayers' Association, realizing the tremendous importance of the downtown improvement project and the money required to develop the plan, has studied the plans intensively, particularly from a homeowner, taxpayer viewpoint.

The plan will definitely help downtown business and every Victoria homeowner. If downtown business decreases property value decreases, tax income decreases; result: homeowners' tax increases. We don't want this to happen; but it will happen if we homeowners remain blind to the true issue at stake—our future welfare.

The financing of the improvement plan is economically sound and definitely feasible with no increase in our taxes. The entire development is paid for out of parking revenue. Common sense bids us to vote yes.

(Mrs.) SALLY ROGERS, President.
42 South Turner Street.

Driving Them Away

It seems to me that property owners will be asking for double trouble if they vote yes on this parking bill on Thursday.

Our parking meter rates will be doubled (plus the odd dollar fine), driving people to shop in the outside districts and not in downtown Victoria. Rather than pay 10¢ every time I park my car, I'll be one of the many to shop outside Victoria City.

It has been stated this mall will not cost the taxpayer anything if it pays its way; but if it does not, which seems more likely, the taxpayer will pay for it with increased taxation.

HELEN M. KERSWELL.
646 Niagara Street.

Soak Them Double

Re the proposed View Street carpark, malls, etc., sounds lovely, doesn't it? "No increase in taxes." But many thousands of taxpayers are also motorists, and they will have to pay double the present parking fee, presumably for all time to come.

I wonder why the civic authorities seem so confident of a "yes" vote. What a way to "encourage" residents and visitors to shop downtown—soak them double for parking.

One may approve of building the proposed facilities, but what a ridiculous way to raise the money.

HERBERT A. NAPPER.
2024 Chambers Street.

High Enough Now

Victoria property taxes are high enough now. This parking lot and mall will only benefit a few stores downtown. I maintain these should supply their own parking facilities, as Eaton's and the Hudson's Bay have done.

They didn't ask the property owners to build them a parking lot.

I think that anyone who votes yes on this bylaw should not complain about high taxes in future. I for one will do my shopping in the rural area if this mall and increased meters goes through on June 23.

Sincerest Gratitude

On behalf of our families, friends and ourselves we would like to express our heartfelt thanks to all those who participated in the recent search for the aircraft, in the crash of which our husbands lost their lives, and the subsequent location and removal of their remains.

It is not possible for us to contact personally each individual concerned, but we realize and appreciate deeply the wonderful assistance rendered by so many who gave so unselfishly of their time and efforts, far beyond the call of duty.

We therefore hope that this message will reach all those to whom we owe our sincerest gratitude.

Those Happy Days

Re Gimie Beardsley's most interesting article, "The Tudor Taste," I beg to disagree with the statement therein: "No thatchers on Vancouver Island."

May I be acknowledged as one of that almost forgotten trade. I learned to thatch some 60 years ago on my father's farm in the battlefield of Hastings. I still think I could do a good job of thatching if I could find a flail to thrash out the grain and not break up the straw. Also where could I find the hazel nut trees to split the wiffing and spars to keep the thatch on?

Ah, but those days are gone forever. Up at 3.30 milking cows. Yes, times have changed—12¢ a gallon for milk and so on.

But lordy, those were happy days. I wonder what labor would think, 3.30 a.m. till 6 p.m. for half a crown a day, a pint of half-and-half and so to bed, another day done.

God save the Queen.

Scientist Refuses To Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee Tuesday ordered Dr. Linus Pauling to give the names of scientists who helped him circulate a 1959 petition seeking a ban on nuclear tests. Pauling said he had no intention of doing so.

Pauling, a 1954 Nobel prize winner in chemistry and a professor at the California Institute of Technology, said this would subject the scientists to reprisals.

He was ordered to appear with the names Aug. 9. Failure to comply could mean imprisonment for contempt.

But Pauling, backed by 15 attorneys, said he would refuse again and then added: "My conscience will not permit me to accede to this part of the request."

SEVERE BLOW
He said he had experienced "the period of McCarthyism" and "if these names were given, the hope for peace would be dealt a severe blow."

Pauling agreed to supply the names of scientists to whom he wrote letters asking for help in circulating the petition, but he refused to name those who agreed.

RED INFLUENCE?
The subcommittee is trying to determine whether there was any Communist influence in the test ban movement.

He said, "It please me immensely that the petition may have played a part, even a small part, in bringing about a change in U.S. atomic policy and the start of the disarmament negotiations with the Russians."

LONDON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev accused United States leaders yesterday of trying to turn back the world to the "worst times of the cold war."

The Soviet leader made the remark at a Communist party congress in Bucharest.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Only something in the nature of a golfing miracle would enable Royal Colwood to retain possession of the Willie Park Driver that goes to the club winning the annual Victoria Inter-Club League.

Colwood is now in third spot, six points behind the joint leaders Gorge Vale and Uplands. If Colwood were to win its last match next Monday at Gorge, it would lead the Gorge by 30-28, but Uplands would also need to lose by 8-1 or worse at Victoria to enable the holders to finish on top.

On present form it is neither likely that the powerful Gorge team will collapse on its own ground or that Uplands will be completely overpowered by Victoria, even if that club has never lost a match at home.

But it is quite another matter to pick between Gorge and Uplands as the eventual winners. The Uplands side is perhaps the best balanced in the competition with little difference between its No. 1 and No. 6 man, but it is likely to lose several points to Victoria's more starry performers.

Gorge too, may be expected to lose one or two matches to Colwood, and in the end it may be their home advantage which will be the deciding factor.

Former B.C. champion and Willingdon Cup player, Kenny Lawson of Uplands is shaping up as the outstanding player of the 1960 Inter-Club League. Kenny is now the only player in the competition undefeated in singles play. He has three wins and two halved matches, and in his partnership with Bob Morrison he has been on the losing side only once in four-ball play.

Other leading performers, each with four wins and one loss are Gordon Fellow of Uplands and Art Donaldson and Dave Fanthorpe of Gorge.

Bill Wakeham, former Canadian, British Columbia and Victoria junior champion, has pushed himself into late consideration for a place on British Columbia's Willingdon Cup team.

After making a slow start to the season, the young Gorge Vale player has played his last four competitive medal rounds in strict par, better than anybody on the Island has managed to do.

Starting with the second round of the City Championship at Uplands, Wakeham shot 69 and 70 in that competition and on Sunday in the 36 holes Zone 1 championship his scores were 69 and 70, which gave him a four-stroke lead over the field. In his two Uplands rounds, Wakeham was one under par and at Victoria he was one over.

In Wakeham's favor, is the fact that he has already proved himself a top class competitor. His victories as a junior convinced Mainland members of the BCGA that the Island youth was one who could pull out the shots when required and who could be relied upon in a crisis.

If Wakeham can make a good showing in the B.C. Amateur (at Uplands this year) then he should at least be in the running.

Laurie Kerr who looked as the Island's main hope after winning the city title (71-67-73—one over par) spoiled his chances somewhat with a 13-over-par 151 in the Zone 1 competition.

Two notable local figures were omitted from those who got distinguished performance mention in the National Golf Week competitions.

Bill Leach, a long-time member of the Victoria Club returned a net 66, to tie with Leonard along with Gordon Fellow, Uplands, and John Carlow, Gorge Vale.

Among the ladies, Mrs. Peggy Harris joined the select band who beat Mrs. Marlene Streit's 78. Mrs. Harris shot a net 77 in the qualifying round of the City ladies' championship that qualified her for a medal along with Mrs. McColl and Mrs. Wheaton of Victoria.

One of the more unusual annual sporting events in the Victoria area is the Dawn Patrol competition played at Victoria Golf Club on the longest day of the year.

It starts at 5 a.m. and the players have completed their round in time to have a hearty breakfast at the club before dashing off to their businesses.

On Tuesday morning, the winner was Don Wagg 86-14-72, and he won by a single stroke from three other early birds.

The Dawn Patrol was instituted five years ago, and in the early days when the night boat between Victoria and Vancouver was running, players and the skipper exchanged signals as the ship passed the links. Now there is no night boat, but the competition has gained in stature by having a trophy of its own.

This is the Bunny Challenor Trophy, presented to the club two years ago by Mr. Challenor's widow as a memorial to her husband who was among the pioneer players in the contest.

Making his first appearance in the Victoria Club Championship Bill McColl got off to a good start with his new club by beating out record titleholder George Bigelow in a finely contested 36-hole final last Sunday.

McColl who was two down after the first round was never in front until he won the 34th hole in a birdie three, and he held this single hole advantage to the 36th, where Bigelow's attempt to sink a reliever making putt just failed.

McColl made his comeback by winning the 27th and 28th holes to level the match, but he lost the 29th to a birdie three, and then leveled again with a par three at the 31st.

CARL FURILLO

VIRGIL TRUCKS

Carl Furillo, Virgil Trucks Play Here in Doubleheader

Carl Furillo, one of the heroes in Los Angeles Dodgers' world series victory, will play at Royal Athletic Park Saturday when the touring Caribbean Kings meet Pages in an exhibition doubleheader. Also featured will be the former major league hurler Virgil Trucks, 41-year-old righthander who pitched three no-hitters in a career that stretched from 1941 to 1958 with Detroit Tigers, St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago White Sox.

Trucks is slated to pitch one game Saturday, and Furillo, who joined the club recently after receiving his release from the Dodgers, will play in the outfield. Games start at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m.

Centralla, scheduled here against Pages Saturday, will play instead on Sunday, in an afternoon doubleheader starting at 2 p.m. Rated a dark horse entry in the Pacific Northwest Baseball League, the club is made up mainly of the 1958 state champion American Legion club.

Fresh from a split with Cheney Studs, the Centralla team will include two young pitchers rated as potential big leaguers. They are Dave Dowling, 17-year-old lefthander, and Ron Warra, 18, who was 6-2 last year with University of Washington.

'His Future Behind Him'

Ingo Goat of Goteborg

(From AP, UPI Reports)

The left hand of Floyd Patterson has turned Ingo Johansson from a hero to a goat in his native Sweden. Johansson's countrymen were so confident he would retain the heavyweight title Monday they installed him as a 15-1 favorite and many went to bed rather than wait until 3 a.m. to hear the fight. That was Monday. Yesterday newspapers in Johansson's native Goteborg began receiving calls from people openly critical of the Smiling Swede. "This will finally put an end to the disgusting ballyhoo around that playboy, Ingo," said one citizen.

Bertall Jansson, sports editor of Expressen, leading Stockholm newspaper, wired from New York that "Johansson has his future behind him."

"I think this was Ingo Johansson's last boxing match," he added. "If he himself does not make this decision when he gets clear in his head again, I would advise him to do it. What happened to Ingo last night was such a serious thing that any boxer in his position should put the gloves on the shelf."

Both Patterson and Johansson were talking rematch yesterday, and both want it within 90 days if possible. Patterson also said if he wins again he would like to negotiate with other contenders, possibly Sonny Liston.

It will probably take weeks for accountants to figure the exact split, but Patterson's total purse, including closed circuit TV receipts, could be close to $763,000 and Johansson's $636,000. Record high for a fighter was $990,000 taken by Gene Tunney from his second fight with Jack Dempsey at Chicago in 1927.

Gross gate Monday is estimated at $800,000.

Kiniski, Watson In Arena Match

Two of the headliners of professional wrestling are in the main event of a card to be presented in Memorial Arena next Thursday night.

Whipper Billy Watson, holder of the British Empire title, and Kit Fox, who has appeared here recently, meet Gene Kiniski and Anton "The Ripper" Leone in a tag team match.

Kiniski, former Edmonton Eskimo football player, has carved quite a name for himself, especially in televised bouts.

Whipper Billy has appeared in Victoria the last two years in aid of the Easter Seals crippled children fund.

Mad Race Kills Nine

NEW IBERIA, La.—A few hours after police gave a speeding ticket to Anthony LaPorte, 19, he and a friend met in a hot-rod race that killed nine persons.

LaPorte was winning the 100-mile-an-hour race with George Babineaux, 17, on an open highway when he side-swiped a car carrying a Negro family of five, and Babineaux hurtled into both cars. Then a minister driving the other way crunched into the pile of junk.

Only survivor was one of the Negroes.

HOLLYWOOD — Visiting King Bhumibol of Thailand says the film "The King and I" while very entertaining, was banned in his country because it showed the King of Siam, Bhumibol's grandfather, in a comedy. Nevertheless, "it has been a great piece of public relations for us."

BRACKNELL, England — Postman Morris Reed was fined $1.19 after his dog bit a milkman.

LEOPOLDVILLE — African political leader Patrice Lumumba was asked a second time to form the first government of the Congo, due for independence June 30. He failed once and, when rival Joseph Kasavubu was called, Lumumba threatened a rebel government.

LONDON — The British automobile industry gave a new Rolls-Royce as its gift to new lords Anthony Armstrong-Jones and Princess Margaret.

MONTREAL — Sister Mary Martin makes Quebec history today when she becomes the first nun to serve as a provincial deputy returning officer. She says: "There'll be no crooked stuff with me."

SPOKANE — Dr. Ingolf Kvale, 62, dentist from Eugene, Ore., who told an airlines stewardess he might have a bomb in his luggage, was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for a year. Kvale was described by his attorney as a "practical joker."

Cyclist's Death Ruled Accident

Death of Daniel Garth Henson, 9, son of Mrs. Alfred Stringer, 2141 Wenman, following a traffic accident was ruled accidental by a coroner's jury yesterday.

The boy died June 16 in hospital of multiple injuries sustained June 14, when his bicycle fell under the rear wheel of a heavily-loaded gravel truck on San Juan, near Tyndall, in the Gordon Head district.

JUST TURNED
Thomas Kershaw of Park Avenue, driver of the truck, testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

He had just turned from Tyndall onto San Juan, he said, when he noticed three small boys on bicycles about 130 to 150 feet ahead. Two rode in single file at the roadside; the other was then weaving toward the centre of the road.

GEARED DOWN
Mr. Kershaw sounded his horn and geared down. He saw the boy straighten out his

Tax Share

Manitoba Wants More

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin says Manitoba will ask for a much larger share of federal tax revenues next month at the federal-provincial tax conference.

Mr. Roblin, also provincial treasurer, said Tuesday that Manitoba's "minimum" request would be a 15-15-50 percentage split of the three tax fields—personal income tax revenue, corporation tax and succession duties. At present, the provinces get a 13-9-50 split.

He said the province may ask for more if the federal government doesn't come through with more money in conditional grants to the provinces for specific purposes.

The premier said Manitoba is studying the implications of a possible Ontario withdrawal from the federal-provincial tax agreement.

Sub 'Killed' Miles Away

FLORIDA STRAITS (UPI)—The U.S. navy Tuesday demonstrated a new anti-submarine missile so accurate that with a dummy warhead it can dent the steel skin of an atomic sub.

The missile system, called ASROC, for anti-submarine rocket, can send an acoustic homing torpedo or a depth charge crashing against an enemy submarine several miles away.

ASROC's range is secret.

Winch Wonders

MPs Corrupted By CBC Fees?

OTTAWA (UPI)—Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) said Tuesday many MPs may be sitting illegally because they accepted money for appearance on CBC programs.

Basing his statement on the legal opinion of justice department officials, he said acceptance of either fees or expenses breached the Senate and House of Commons Act and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Act, sections of which forbid MPs from accepting fees from Crown agencies.

He said the CBC had never warned MPs they were breaking the law by accepting money.

He found out about this in January when he appeared on the "Fighting Words" television program. He said he might have accepted a $100 fee and $80 in travelling expenses had he not inquired first about the legality of such a course.

Winch said some "crank" might press charges against MPs if the acts were not amended.

Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to parliament for the CBC, "took note" of Winch's remarks.

ATTENTION SUN-TAN LOVERS!

Now! A golden tan guaranteed with or without sun

Amazing new sun-tan lotion gives you a golden tan in hours...anywhere, any weather...or money back!

New sun-tan discovery! At last—an amazing new lotion that gives you a tan look with...or without sun! It's called Positan! Positan's remarkable action is due to a startling new, safe discovery called Protosol that starts to work the instant it comes in contact with the top layers of human skin. Apply Positan and its action begins... gradually. In about four to six hours you'll notice your new tan appearance... in or out of the sun! Just follow the simple directions—the more you apply Positan, the deeper, the darker your tan looks.

Tans while you sleep! Use Positan tonight... look tan tomorrow! No need for the sun, sun-lamps or solariums. Enjoy the look of a rich, golden, natural tan—the more Positan you apply, the deeper the tan! It's so safe and easy to use.

For sun bathers... at the beach! If you enjoy being out in the sun Positan is for you. Because Positan contains a screening ingredient that with regular application helps prevent burning and peeling... and exposure to the sun with Positan will hasten and deepen your tan. After sunning and showering, use Positan to even your tan on legs, thighs and neckline. It's best to avoid excess sun-exposure.

Blondes! Redheads! All skin types! Even if you're a blonde or redhead Positan will give you a golden tan. You stay tan... you look healthy all year round... with or without exposing yourself to the sun. The Positan formula has been shown in laboratory tests and clinical tests to be safe for all types of normal skin... on the face or body—wherever you want to be tan. Thousands of men, women... and children... are satisfied users of Positan. Not oily, greasy or sticky. Does not contain iodine. Positan is not a paint, stain or makeup. Used as directed the tan look it gives you won't come off with ordinary washing or showering.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
When used as directed, Positan is guaranteed to give you a smooth, even tan appearance wherever you use it—rain or shine, indoors or out, summer or winter! With regular application it helps prevent sunburning, peeling, drying out. The tan will not come off with ordinary washing or showering. Guaranteed to give you the even, glamorous tan look you expect or your money back!

Business, Labor Agree

Hillside Plaza Promises Bright Future for City

'Lot of Employment' In Woodward Plans

Business and labor spokesmen welcomed announcement of Hillside Plaza plans yesterday as a promise of improvement of economic conditions in Greater Victoria. (See also Page 8.)

W. A. Pendray, Chamber of Commerce president, said the chamber had not discussed the matter but personally he thought it was "quite a development—Woodward's must see quite a future ahead for have looked into it pretty carefully."

And, he said, the project was going to provide "a lot of employment."

"To labor, it's definitely good news," said A. W. Toone, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council. "There's no doubt about the slack in employment in the building trades needs to be taken up at this time, and the work will help out tremendously. We need a break immediately to alleviate a serious situation."

THROUGH WINTER

"We sincerely trust they will have it all laid down this summer so that construction can proceed through the winter."

"There will be a large number of employees on a permanent basis, too," Jack Driscoll, president of the Building Trades Council, also welcomed the announcement as a promise of jobs for unemployed construction workers.

MID-SEASON
Unions affiliated with the council, he said, had reported unemployment ranging from 15 to 50 per cent, "and that's at mid-season, too."

Shopping centre was needed rather than the downtown parking and mall development, he said, to ease downtown congestion.

George Farmer, vice-president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, described the project as "quite a deal" and expressed hope tenders would be called from local contractors, sub-contractors as well as general contractors.

"That's what we are interested in," he said. "It's of vital interest to all contractors in Victoria."

Saanich

Garages To Set Own Hours

Service stations in Saanich will soon be able to set their own business hours.

Saanich finance committee, which includes every member of the municipal council, last night recommended that council let service stations set their own hours. It will be nearly two weeks before council can officially take action on the move.

The change was requested in petition by 33 of 41 service station operators in the area. In the past, service stations had to remain open until 9 p.m. in the summer and 7 p.m. in the winter and permits could be obtained to open holidays or run a 24-hour service.

Jupiter Bright in Sky

'Tennis' Fireball Distant Planet

A mysterious ball of fire about the size of a tennis ball, seen over Victoria skies the past several nights, actually is 87,000 miles in diameter and about 490,000,000 miles away from the earth.

Astronomers here believe the light reported seen in the sky about midnight Sunday and Monday is Jupiter, largest planet in our solar system and brightest object in the sky at this time.

Jupiter rises in the southeastern sky about midnight and moves slowly towards the west. It will be visible for some time yet, when not obscured by clouds, an astronomer said last night.

Culture Centre Plan Draws Puzzled Looks

More puzzlement than anything else was the result at city hall yesterday of a suggestion that Victoria should have a $1,000,000 cultural centre around the Royal Theatre instead of a $4,000,000 auditorium.

The suggestion was made Monday night by Jack Barracough, Victoria Symphony Society. He said $4,000,000 could provide an auditorium and leave the Royal Theatre vacant, or $1,000,000 could build a cultural centre around the theatre and leave $3,000,000 to be invested to produce revenue for the support of cultural activities.

"Nobility has ever talked of $4,000,000 to start with," Mayor Percy Scurrell said.

PROPOSES BORROWING

It looks to me as if Mr. Barracough proposes we should borrow the money, and then put it in a fund to get revenue from it, but I couldn't credit anyone with that kind of financial thinking."

In any event, the mayor said, an auditorium was needed to provide convention facilities among other things. People coming to conventions, he said, were the ones bringing money to the city.

"It's an interesting proposal," said Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the special committee studying auditorium needs and possibilities, "but I don't know where he gets the figure of $4,000,000. No figure has been mentioned. We aren't thinking in terms of $4,000,000. We're trying to be a little more conservative than that!"

Like the mayor, he saw an auditorium as the first need.

Many Callers Few Buyers

Twenty lots remain of those put on sale in the Rockheights subdivision yesterday. Equinault officials said. Many inquiries were received from prospective buyers, but only one lot was sold. Prices on municipally-owned lots range from $1,300 to $2,300.

Saanich Scraps Dog Leash Law

New Rules Stress 'Control'

Saanich councillors last night reluctantly scrapped a proposed leash law for dogs following an hour-long presentation by SPCA officials and another hour of discussion.

The controversial bylaw would have required that owners keep their dogs on leashes whenever they ventured onto public property.

TRY AGAIN

In its place will be drafted a new bylaw which, among other things, will require that all dogs on public property be under "effective and immediate control" of a responsible person at all times.

The present impoundment fee of $2 will be raised to $6 for a first offence and $10 for a second offence occurring within three months. Pound board rates will be hiked to $2 a day from the present nominal charge of 25 cents.

DEATH PENALTIES

Council, meeting as the finance committee, also agreed to either make use of the SPCA's downtown electrocution facilities for dogs to be destroyed or else install an electrocution machine of its own.

Unhappiest of councillors over the scrapping of the leash law was Coun. George Austin, who warned his colleagues they would have a hard time getting re-elected if they didn't take stringent measures to abate the dog nuisance.

CAUSES CRUELTY

Victoria SPCA president Cameron Webster told council that a leash law was practically unenforceable and caused and encouraged unintentional cruelty to dogs by denying them proper exercise and, when forgotten by their owner while tied up, leaving them hungry and without water.

Highlights of the dog bylaw discussion came when:

● Police Chief W. A. Pearson stated that 90 per cent of Saanich dog-owners fail to control their dogs and that 90 per cent of Saanich dogs are mongrels.

● Poundkeeper T. Y. Sinclair said that of 243 dogs he has had to destroy from Jan. 1 to June 15 all were mongrels with "no breed in them."

● Coun. Gregory Cook doubted that canine control could extend to a situation "where you and your dog are walking down the street and he comes to a rhododendron bush."

The new bylaw will forbid unleashed dogs in commercial areas and public parks, but allow them to be unleashed in most parts of the municipality if they are under control.

Doghouse For Dog Of SPCA?

A red-faced Victoria SPCA official last night protested what he termed "personal remarks" during discussion by Saanich councillors of a proposed dog-control bylaw.

No sooner had SPCA secretary-manager Philip Wilkinson outlined what he considered the correct qualifications for a properly-trained dog when up jumped Saanich poundkeeper T. Y. Sinclair.

"I've had four complaints in one week about your dog, Mr. Wilkinson," he blurted out before being shushed by finance chairman George Austin.

Seven Painters Donate

Art on Block To Revive Refugee Drive

Paintings given by seven Victoria artists will be sold Saturday in aid of Victoria's lagging World Refugee Fund.

REACHED $5,000

Other artists responded to an appeal for paintings to help the refugee fund, which has reached only $8,000 of its $50,000 objective, with only two weeks of World Refugee Year to go.

Donors include internationally known artist Herbert Siebner and William D. West, Mrs. Nita Forrest, Michael Morris, Flemming Jorgensen and Rudy Ciockmar.

The benefit show at the Husband home Saturday will include a swimming exhibition and a colorfully garbed Polish dancing troupe.

Some 350 canvassers are making the rounds of Victoria homes this week. More canvassers, as well as donations, are needed to help boost the fund, which is earmarked for the following purposes:

● Clearing Europe's shanty-town refugee camps, where men, women and children have been leading miserable lives since the war; moving inmates to healthier surroundings.

● Training Arab refugee youth in Palestine for jobs.

● Relieving squalid conditions in Hong Kong, where crowding is so bad that landlords are charging rent for sleeping space under beds, on rooftops and in doorsteps.

Volunteer canvassers can get in touch with G. D. Blake at EV 3-8252.

Donations can go to the World Refugee Year Committee in care of Mrs. Joan Van der Goes at P.O. Box 263, Victoria, or at 305 Denison Road, Victoria, telephone EV 3-7471.

FLEMING JORGENSEN

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago I decided to form a club. I got two other girls my age (12) to join. They elected me president. The purpose of the club is to be friends and do interesting things.

No matter what I want to do they are against it. We take a vote and I lose. If I want to go bowling, they vote for a movie. When I want to go skating, they vote to go home and do their homework.

I'm afraid I'm going to lose my presidency if I can't think of a way to get some unity into the club in a hurry. How can I do it?—MADAME PRESIDENT.

Dear Madame: A president is not supposed to inflict his will on the members. In a democracy the majority rules—not the president.

Why not take in a few additional members. They might have some brand new ideas and the club would be more fun. (It could shift the balance of power, too.)

What's His Is Mine

Dear Ann: Recently I married after being a widow for 10 years. The man I married lost his mate five years ago. It was agreed when we married that I was to quit my job and do whatever I chose with the small income from my husband's estate. It was further agreed that we'd live on his salary, and what was his was mine, also.

Now that we're married he takes me to the market once a week, pushes the cart and I walk behind him like a child. If I pick an item off the shelf he says, "Put it back. We don't need it." He pays the rent and utilities. If I want a piece of clothing, he comes with me to pick it out and he pays for it.

My pocket book is so empty I keep tissue paper in it so it won't look so flat. Why should I have to beg for money when I was once completely independent and could be that way again if I went back to work? What do you suggest?—J. W.

Dear J. W.: I suggest you sit down with your husband and review the original agreement that you live on his salary and what's his is yours, also.

Every woman should have some money to spend as she wishes, as a matter of dignity. She's a partner in the marriage, even if she's not bringing home a pay cheque.

If he doesn't loosen up, tell him you're going back to work and he can pay a housekeeper to cook and clean and follow him around the market when he shops.

Suspicious Show

Dear Ann: Is it smart to let a husband drive the day-lady (she's younger than I am), my cousin, my sisters and the next-door neighbor to the bus line without me?

Recently when he offered to drive my cousin I suggested he take the kids along for the ride. He blew up and said "For Pete's sake, Helen, cut it out. I don't need a chaperone."

What does this sound like to you?—WONDERING.

Dear Wondering: It sounds like your suspicions are showing. Since you object to his being alone with the cleaning lady, the cousin and your sisters, your jealousy covers a wide range.

If the kids had asked to go along and he said no, it would be different. But when you suggest they accompany him it indicates you feel he needs watching. He resents this and he has a right to.

Cut it out, Helen, or you may put ideas in his head.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 25¢ in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Doctor Says

Too Much Sunshine Can Cause Cancer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A suntan has become a "status symbol" in status-conscious America, a Chicago dermatologist said today.

Many people work hard to convert a peaches-and-cream complexion into "the sun-battered skin of a desert rat," Dr. William Becker, Jr., wrote in the June issue of GP Magazine, published monthly by the American Academy of General Practice.

Becker said the bad effects of over-exposure to the sun "ages the skin and can cause cancer," but that Americans continue to indulge in a "historically unique sun worship—ancient peoples offered sacrifices other than themselves."

ABNORMAL. Becker, clinical assistant professor of dermatology at the University of Illinois, said few people are aware "that after a single, moderately severe sunburn the blood vessels are abnormal for four to 15 months." Skin becomes dry and loses its elasticity, he said.

Historically, a deep tan has always had social significance, he said, but older cultures regarded tanning and weathering of the skin by sunlight as stigmas of the lower classes.

ABOVE LABOR. The pale translucent complexion was most desired. This identified a personage as above laboring in the fields," he said.

The industrial revolution moved the lower classes indoors. Increasing leisure has altered the attitude towards outside activity. Many segments of current American society endow a deep tan, especially out of season, with an air of virility, leisure and wealth.

PLAIN CREAM. Becker said there is no foolproof method of preventing sunburn and "we must accept the fact that the white skin is not physiologically able to tolerate a large amount of strong ultraviolet light."

He said plain vanishing cream, containing 10 per cent para-aminobenzoic acid, "affords 30 times more protection" than many commercial products.

Ultimately, he said, benzophenones may someday help prevent sunburn and skin damage. Experiments work in that direction is in progress, he said, but no commercial preparations are currently available.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats... for easier and more complete digestion.

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

With the annual epidemic of showers, teas, anniversaries, weddings, bon voyage parties, etc., you'll be hunting for new ideas for sandwiches as well as a good sharp knife.

To vary the sandwich plates use different breads—white, brown, whole wheat, rye and other fancy varieties such as raisin, nut, date, orange, candied fruits, etc. And when estimating amounts these are things to remember.

One small sandwich loaf (1½ pounds) cuts into 30 to 40 slices slightly less than ½-inch thick; ¼ pound butter is needed per loaf; 1½ pounds of about 2½ cups moist meat filling spreads 1 loaf (1½ pounds); cold meat sliced thinly cuts into 15 to 20 per pound; 1 dozen hard-cooked eggs chopped and mixed with onion and salad dressing spreads 1 loaf (1½ pounds).

Remove crusts if to be cut from sandwiches before spreading the bread, and butter can be saved. Crusts can be used for crumbs, bread puddings, etc. Butter can also be saved by adding 1 cup (8 ounces) milk to 1 pound butter. If used don't butter the slices too far ahead as it may soak into the bread.

To slice fresh bread thinly chill the loaf in the refrigerator before slicing. Use a very sharp knife.

Most meat, cheese or egg sandwiches may be made ahead of time. The sandwiches carefully wrapped in waxed paper, and stored in a cool place or they may be placed, unwrapped in a pan, then completely covered with waxpaper and a damp cloth. Be sure that the damp cloth does not touch the sandwiches.

Lettuce or tomato sandwiches should not be made up ahead of time or they will tend to become soggy.

FRUITED CREAM CHEESE SANDWICH FILLING

Allow one 4-ounce package cream cheese to stand at room temperature to soften and then cream it with 1 tbsp. milk. Blend in 3 tbsp. chopped glazed fruit (cherries, pineapple, etc.), 1 tbsp. chopped walnuts, dash salt. For each sandwich cut two small circles of bread, one with a doughnut hole in top. Butter each circle generously, spread each large circle with the filling, cover with second circle with the cut out piece.

BOUQUET SANDWICHES

Use thinly sliced bread. If making them in quantity it is worthwhile buying unsliced bread. Buy it a day ahead for easier handling. Trim off crusts and cut into lengthwise slices.

Go over the slices lightly with a rolling pin to make firm clean cutting surfaces. Spread with cream cheese and cut into shapes with appropriate cutters—hearts, bell or rings made with doughnut cutter. Or cut squares of spread bread and twist into cornucopias by overlapping two separate corners.

Press edges and the cheese will hold them in shape—no picks needed.

Lily of the Valley Hearts—trim short pieces of chives with scissors; curve two pieces on each heart-shaped piece of spread bread for flower stalks. Lift red caviar eggs with a pick and place as lily of the valley blossoms on the stalks.

Tulip Hearts or Bells—cut small red radishes in small wedges. Arrange chives into stalks and add two short pieces for leaves. Top with 3 petals of radish.

Cornucopias—fill each bread cornucopia with a small spray of tiny bunches of watercress spiked with bits of red radish; or young field salad leaves and bits of cucumber or the tops of celery stalks and pimiento strips.

Solarium Receives League Donations

Two cheques, representing the profits of a successful year's work by the Solarium Junior League, were presented to executives of the Queen Alexandra Solarium at the league's annual dinner held at the Royal Colwood Golf Club, Monday.

Mr. H. A. Smith, president of the Solarium board of directors received a cheque for $25,400 which will be used for general maintenance.

Equipment for the new wing of the hospital including 16 bedside lockers and new chart-holders will be purchased with the $2,500 cheque handed to Mr. John Holdstock, Solarium administrator.

One of the largest projects of the league in the past year was the production of a minstrel show early in spring. The show proved so popular it is hoped to repeat it next year.

Other fund-raising undertakings included the sale of hotdogs and coffee at Goldstream Park last fall during the fish run, program selling at the performances of the Ice Capades in January, and the annual Shower of Dimes in June.

Mrs. Darcy Franklin was given a life membership at the dinner, and presented with a diamond pin in recognition of long service.

Mrs. Roger Garden, re-elected league president for a second term, presided at the meeting. Other officers are Miss Margaret Munn, vice-president; Mrs. Maryvyn Karst, recording secretary; Mrs. Allen Pike, corresponding secretary, and Miss Peggy Speirs, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Wed at Brentwood

Brentwood Memorial Chapel was the scene of a pretty evening wedding recently when Jessie May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Peard, Brentwood, exchanged nuptial vows and rings with Mr. Gary Lewis Rogers, son of Mrs. Roma Rogers, Sidney, B.C.

Rev. George Harrington performed the ceremony and Mrs. H. E. Marshall played traditional organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a dress of white lace and net over tulle, with long, and jacket of white lace. Her finger tip embroidered veil misted from a coronet of pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

A pearl necklace and earrings were her jewelry. Mrs. B. Elvedahl, matron of honor, chose a red nylon sheer over tulle dress, with red and white flower bandeau. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

Little Linda Wood wore a flower girl's dress of white lace over tulle tied with a red sash. The red and white roses in the basket she carried matched the flowers in her hair.

Mr. Laurie Hill Jr. was best man and ushers were Mr. Tony Peard and Mr. Wayne Kinghorn.

A reception was held at Brenta Lodge where the bride's table was decorated with pink and white flowers.

and pink candles in silver holders.

The three-tiered cake which centred the table was made by Mrs. G. M. Callaghan and decorated by Mrs. W. H. Westoby.

The mother of the bride wearing a green suit and pink accessories and the mother of the groom in a green dress with matching jacket and beige accessories, assisted in receiving.

For a honeymoon in Alberta the new Mrs. Rogers wore a willow green box suit with beige accessories and pink carnation corsage. The newlyweds will make their home at Deep Cove, B.C.

Naval Guard Formed Outside St. John's

A naval guard of honor of three Sub-Lieutenants and three senior Venture cadets formed outside St. John's Anglican Church, after the marriage of Maxine Edith McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McClure to Sub-Lieut. Michael Paul Bowen, RCN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Bowen, 791 McKenzie Avenue.

Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony held last evening. Mrs. Frederick Chubb was organist.

The bride wore a floor-length dress of nylon sheer with a basque bodice billowing into a hooped skirt. Sequined lace outlined the neck and an applied lace panel on the skirt was adorned with two flat bows.

A dainty cap of nylon and seed pearls had one pearl droplet in the centre front and a bow at the back attached to a silk illusion veil. A cascade of yellow roses was carried by the bride.

Miss Judi Bowen, sister of the groom was bridesmaid in a pale orchid dress of silk organza. She carried a bouquet of mauve gladiolus.

Sub-Lieut. David S. Drew, RCN, serving with HMCS Margaree, was best man. Mr. David G. Titterton, cousin of the groom and Mr. Hugh G.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN E. HEWSON

All summer long our sunny, carefree weekends are followed by some of the grimmest reading of the year. Newspaper stories tell of death and disaster by car, fire and water.

Transporting the family safely to cottage or camp is an adult responsibility, but children can learn some of the safety rules of fire and water at an early age.

CARELESSNESS "It was an accident" is another way of saying that someone was careless, and carelessness is the result of bad judgment and ignorance.

We can help our children to know some of the dangers of those good servants but bad masters, fire and water.

INEXPERIENCED Children who live in electrically equipped homes have little experience in handling matches. They may be fascinated by the little spurt of flame but quite ignorant of its potential danger.

They can be taught how to use a match, how to light a fire, how to trim, clean and light the kerosene lamps if these are used.

SUPERVISE THEM All this should be done under supervision of course.

At camp or cottage, matches should always be kept in tightly covered container (to keep dry and away from the mice) and should always be placed well out of the way of little people.

Children who learn the proper and careful use of matches seldom feel the urge to play with them in hidden spots.

CHECK LIGHTS Another task that helps to impress safety precautions on children is to give them the job of checking all flashlights before starting on a holiday trip.

Batteries and bulbs should be in good working order and replacements bought.

The increased use of pleasure boats and the rise in boating accidents have resulted in strict government standards and regulations concerning life-saving equipment.

Oriental Cabbage Patch

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

You don't see the Chinese cabbage grown very frequently in home gardens hereabouts, although this is probably the most delectable vegetable of the cabbage family. Moreover, they are quite easy to grow. If you know how—and may be used either raw in salads, like lettuce, or cooked as you would the ordinary cabbage.

The most common mistake made in growing the Chinese cabbage is to put the seeds in during the spring, along with the other vegetables. This never works very well, for if the plants start to heart up during one of our summer hot, dry spells, it goes to seed and turns bitter and tough.

The trick here is to sow late, starting in the last week of June and putting in a small amount of seed every week or so until the middle of August. The first of the plants should be ready to eat in early September and such succession sowing will keep a small but steady supply coming to the table throughout the fall and early winter. Hearting up, as they do, when the weather starts to turn cooler, they don't run to seed so readily, although plants from the earliest sowings shouldn't be allowed to stand for long in the garden after they have made hearts.

There are three varieties to choose from among the Chinese cabbages. The largest, is Michihli, growing to about 18 inches tall, with dark green leaves and plump hearts, ready for cutting in about 70 days. Wong Bok is thicker through and not so tall and under good growing conditions has been known to make a head weighing 12 pounds. It takes a little longer to grow, maturing in around 80 days.

Pe-Tsai is the baby of the family and, although it was once grown as poultry feed and considered unfit for human consumption, for my money it is the best of the lot. The leaves are a lighter green, with a better blanch to the hearts and, while the other two have something of a celery flavor, Pe-Tsai has a slight mustardy taste which I find most appetizing. It is a little earlier than the other two and produces more compact and smaller hearts.

I find these plants do better in slight shade than right out in full sun and I like to pick a spot where some of the taller vegetables will keep the sun off them during the hottest part of the day. Line the soil—all of the leafy vegetables need lime—and take your furrows out 18 inches apart. Wet the seed drills very thoroughly, then sow thinly, covering to a depth of 1/2 inch with dry soil. When the seedlings come up, thin out to stand 15 inches apart—a little less for Pe-Tsai—and don't attempt to transplant the thinnings.

In preparing this vegetable for the table, peel off and discard the weatherbeaten outer leaves, leaving just the blanched heart. This can be shaved thinly to make a delicious coleslaw or you can cook it, and one advantage Chinese cabbage has over the ordinary kinds is its complete freedom from cooking odor.

While it is excellent just plain boiled, I think the flavor is much better when cut up and cooked gently for about 10 minutes in a pan to which a little bacon fat has been added. No water at all is used in this method and the hearts are merely washed and chopped up and placed in the pan.

Flop Dropped Mai

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The reported dropping of Mai Britt's option at 20th Century-Fox was as much the result of her "Blue Angel" flop as the recent romantic cutups in London. Mai will make some films in her native Sweden, after, and if and when, she weds Sammy Davis Jr.

Sammy's bodyguard kept a sharp eye on Sophia Loren when she visited the Place Pigalle in London to hear Davis perform—just in case any more jewel thieves were planning something.

The most attractive quality a woman can have, Lynn Fontaine told them in London, is an attractive speaking voice. Do you agree? Lynn is over there to star in "The Visit" with husband Alfred Lunt.

Coming up for Gordon and Sheila Macrae in summer stock is "Redhead," in addition to "Annie Get Your Gun," to be followed by the Yip Harburg show, "The Happiest Girl in the World." Which Sheila is, as wife, mother, and career girl.

Those lovey-dovey "togetherness" ads of Joan Fontaine and Collier Young were made long before they parted. They continue to share the fees.

A Greek Cypriot, Andreas Yiacomis, accused and acquitted of the murder of a British soldier two years ago in Cyprus, is playing a British soldier in Otto Preminger's "Exodus." And the wife of the slain soldier is protesting. I think she has a strong point.

'Tis said that British star Peggy Ashcroft will take the role played by Margaret Sullivan in "Sweet Love Remembered." The play was postponed after Margaret's death, and there was talk that Arlene Francis would have the part when the show resumed. Arlene is currently appearing at the Westport County Playhouse in "Amphytrion 38," with Kent Smith. His pretty daughter, Stacy, must be nearly 18. Last time I saw Stacy she was five—attending the fifth birthday party of my daughter Wendy. She was silent most of the time. Then producer Joe Pasternak's son Michael, also five at the time, told a joke. I can still hear Stacy's sudden burst of laughter.

Hard to believe, but Marlon Brando is unknown in Tahiti, according to the 14-year-old grandson, Tony Rutgers, of the late Norman Hall who wrote "Mutiny on the Bounty." Marlon is wanted for the Clark Gable role. "But we'd rather have Eddie Constantine," writes Tony.

Up the rebels, Nick Adams, star of The Rebels, is rushing to complete another 26 segments by August; 39 are already finished. "Then I'll make a movie," said Nick, who was better known in the past as the friend of the late Jimmy Dean and Natalie Wood. Now he is a star in his own right, married, and a father.

Marilyn Monroe's dream is to play a scene with Eli Wallach at the Actors Studio in New York. "We've been scheduling it for the past couple of years," Eli smiled. They'll do it either before or just after their movie, "The Misfits."

Orson Welles, cast for his telefilmed version of "Julius Caesar," has, in addition to Charlton Heston as Brutus, Trevor Howard as Cassius, and he is trying to lure Richard Burton from Switzerland to play Mark Antony. At the moment Orson plans to direct only. He's longing to play King Lear on the stage, and what a field day he will have with that rampaging part!

Frank Sinatra cabled the clan from the Orient, to get ready for the big push and the hard sell on "Ocean's 11" which Lewis Milestone is now editing at Warners.

Guiding 'Treasures'

All-Out Drive for High Goals

(This is the third in a series of articles on Viscount Montgomery's visit to China.)

By FIELD MARSHAL VISCOUNT MONTGOMERY

Chou En-lai explained that his government had laid down certain guiding principles which are to form the basis of the national effort. These he called "The Three Treasures" and they are known as such by the people. They are:

1. The general line for socialist construction. This is to go all out; to aim high; to achieve greater and better results more quickly. In fact, to achieve economic strength, and raise the standard of living of the people of China as quickly as possible.
2. This is to be done by a great "Leap Forward" in every field.
3. The people's communes. Only by the formation of these can China achieve the concentrated effort needed to build up quickly the economic strength and moral fibre of the nation.

These "treasures" have been accepted by the whole nation and I saw many practical examples of how they are being implemented.

On the night before I left Peking, Chou En-lai gave a banquet for me in the great dining hall of the People's Congress Hall—a huge building which was erected by the Chinese in eight months. He had assembled many of the leading Chinese actors, singers, dancers and musicians, and these gave a fine performance during dinner. It was stated by some that the banquet was a unique gathering in the history of the present regime; it was certainly a spectacular climax to my stay in Peking.

Present at the banquet were many whom I had met during my three days in Peking, including some soldiers, and also the non-regular group of young men and girls who had carried out for me a parachute demonstration— which was quite first-class. Also present was the last emperor of the Manchu dynasty— Henry Pu

Yi, who is now a gardener in Peking. I asked him if he was happy; he replied that he had never been so contented; he reckoned it was far better to be a gardener with freedom to do what he liked than to sit on the imperial throne in the Forbidden City—when he had no freedom and could never do as he liked!

I also met at the banquet some generals who had fought on the side of Chiang Kai-shek, had been captured, and recently set free. One of them had commanded the Nationalist army in the last decisive battle of the civil war and had been heavily defeated by the Communists, the Communist army being commanded by Marshal Chen Yi— now Foreign Minister. I asked him how many soldiers he had in his army at that battle, and he said 1,000,000. I remarked that with an army of 1,000,000 men he ought not to have been carried out for me a parachute demonstration. He replied that Marshal Chen Yi had 2,000,000 men! Chen Yi was listening to this conversation, and we all had a good laugh about it.

WINNIPEG (CP) — E. B. Moran, executive vice-president of the American Association of Credit Management, told a group of Canadian credit managers Tuesday it is important for them to use proper terms when describing their business.

For example, he said, credit managers should really be known as "customer-relations executives."

Mr. Moran told the credit managers the credit department of companies should be in charge of fixing sales quotas because it can prepare reports outlining each customer's buying power.

Mr. Moran told the credit officials they should follow the trend set by other professions which have adopted more attractive titles.

He said people are no longer asked to buy life insurance; they purchase "security for the future."

"Mostly, you're still saying the same thing," he said, "but it's the approach that matters."

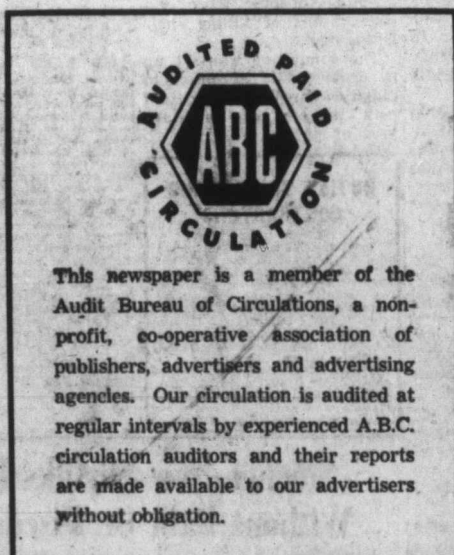

In the credit industry, Mr. Moran said, talk of delinquent accounts is antiquated. He said these accounts now should be referred to as "past due or neglected."

High-Speed Service on Trial

Hydrofoil Ferry Here in August

Four Trips Daily 'At Start

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

An experimental hydrofoil ferry service which will bring Victoria's Inner Harbor within 50 minutes of the Washington city of Bellingham is to go into effect Aug. 1.

The hydrofoil, of Italian design and manufacture, will move at over 40 knots, and is being operated by Seattle, Bellingham and Victoria interests.

Victoria terminal for the new service will be a new dock at the Esquimalt end of Johnson Street bridge owned by Harbor Marine Co., which is the Canadian representative of the operating company, Hydrofoil Development and Operating Corp.

APPLICATION MADE

A spokesman for Harbor Marine told The Daily Colonist yesterday that an application was being made to the department of transport at Ottawa for a ferry permit to run between Bellingham and Victoria.

He said no difficulties were anticipated as hydrofoils were an acknowledged form of water transportation and had been used in various parts of the world with great success.

FULL SPEED

Tests made on the 60-foot vessel, which will be used initially between Bellingham and Victoria, show it can operate at full speed in waves up to six feet high. When waves get higher than that the speed has to be reduced so that the hull of the boat comes down to water level.

At full speed the body of the ship moves above the water.

BOUND TRIPS

"The service initially will be three or four round trips a day," said the Harbor Marine spokesman, "and it will be a daylight only service for a start."

Providing the initial service is a hydrofoil chartered on a three-month agreement from H. M. Tiedemann and Co. of New York. Known as the Flying Fish, this hydrofoil has been operating between the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Atlantic coast.

ARRIVES SOON

It is at present being moved by ship from Puerto Rico and is expected to arrive at Seattle within the next two weeks.

If the three-month trial service is successful, the operating company plans to build several more larger hydrofoils of Italian design in west coast plants. They would be of 104-foot length and would carry about double the number of passengers.

BUILT HERE?

It was stated that the new ships to be built under licence might be constructed in Seattle or Victoria yards.

"We feel that the link between Bellingham and Victoria may be only the start to a revolutionary new ferry service in the Puget Sound and B.C. coastal area," said the spokesman.

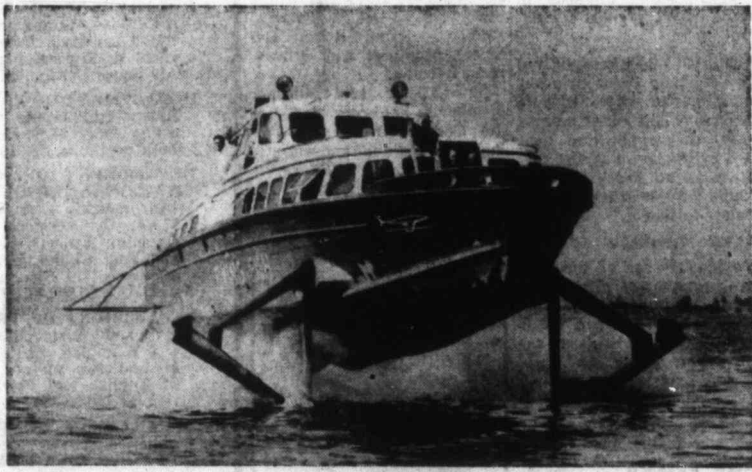

SEATTLE LINK

"Using the Victoria-Bellingham route, Seattle would be within 2½ hours transportation time of Victoria," he added. "A direct trip between Victoria and Seattle by hydrofoil could be made inside two hours."

The route to be used will be by trial island to the southern tip of Lopez Island, and then, past Pidalgo Island through the pass between Cypress and Guemes Islands and into Bellingham harbor.

Crew of the hydrofoil will be a pilot, an engineer and a stewardess.

D. Murray Mason, west coast vice-president of Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co., said the Flying Fish fare would be about $2.50 for a single trip.

This is the 60-passenger hydrofoil now on its way to Seattle from Puerto Rico to go into service between Victoria and Bellingham Aug. 1. It will make 37-mile trip to Bellingham in 50 minutes.

Slim Hope for One

Gale Drowns Forest Youths

B.C. Forest Service officials last night were clinging desperately to a slim hope that one of four men thrown from a department boat at Stuart Lake may still be alive.

Bodies of three others have been recovered but only one had been positively identified early this morning.

One of the four youths, members of a forest service inventory survey crew, is reported to be from Vancouver Island.

The three are believed to have drowned during a violent storm on Monday night while returning by riverboat to Fort St. James, some 360 miles north of Vancouver.

DOG SURVIVES

Hope that the fourth member of the party may be alive stems from the fact that a dog which accompanied the party was found alive and apparently unharmed on a beach close to where the boat was found. It is strengthened by the fact that the man was probably wearing a lifejacket, although lifejackets failed to save the lives of his companions.

Officials said the party consisted of one graduate forester, age 25, and three forest technicians age about 20. The four were summer workers.

Searchers who combed the waters of the 40-mile-long lake yesterday after wreckage of the craft was sighted by a passing boat were scheduled to go out again at daybreak today.

TRAGIC MEMORY

It was beside the same lake some four years ago that a forest service marking-crew employee became separated from the rest of his party, got lost and died of exposure after a days-long search which utilized departmental searchers, the RCMP and Indian trackers.

Forest officials said they did not know the inventory crew was overdue at its base until the remains of the 22-foot craft were spotted late yesterday. They said they were first notified of the tragedy at 4:30 p.m.

Stuart Lake is known for its awesome and sudden storms and is treated with respect by seasoned boatmen.

CHRISTIAN HERTER
... takes blame

Japanese Feeling Misjudged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian Herter conceded yesterday that he and other U.S. officials failed to anticipate the magnitude and severity of anti-American riots that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

He also said the Eisenhower administration is abandoning high-level, personal diplomacy in favor of increased emphasis on old-style diplomatic association.

Under sharp questioning by inquiring senators, Herter said any incorrect evaluation of anti-American feeling in Japan stemmed from a "collective judgment" by top officials of the administration in which the White House concurred. But he said he personally was willing to take the blame.

Japanese Mobs Plan Force to Halt Treaty

TOKYO (CP)—Emperor Hirohito put the imperial seal yesterday to the bitterly controversial United States-Japan security treaty soon after Premier Nobusuke Kishi's cabinet gave it final approval.

All that remains to bring the treaty into effect is for the U.S. Senate to ratify it and for the American and Japanese governments to exchange ratification documents.

Screaming leftist mobs, seeking to block the treaty, clamped a four-hour shutdown on transportation throughout Japan.

The planned time and place for exchange of the ratifications was shrouded in secrecy in an attempt to foil the premier's opponents.

Real Estate Fraud Hinted

Investigation of the possibility of fraud in large-scale lower mainland real estate transactions is being undertaken by the B.C. attorney-general's department.

The case is said to involve more than two dozen companies which are reported to be operating outside the provincial real estate licensing regulations.

Unofficial estimates are that the transactions may involve close to $2,000,000.

The case could develop into one of the biggest real estate scandals in B.C.'s history.

So far no arrests have been made but investigators believe they are close to breaking the case wide open. They are studying records on a wide scale in their search for evidence.

Reports indicate that some of the transactions under scrutiny involve lands in the Ladner area and hotel properties.

Startling disclosures are expected by the investigators if they can obtain the evidence they are looking for.

An official of the attorney-general's department yesterday confirmed that the investigation is underway.

A likely site for such a mill would be at Union Bay.

LONDON (CP)—Nikita Khrushchev Tuesday jumped into the growing word battle between Peking and Moscow with a forthright declaration that the Soviets believe war can be avoided.

"Whoever does not realize this," he said, "has no faith in the creative power of the working class and underestimates the strength of the socialist camp."

Khrushchev spoke in Bucharest at the congress of the Romanian Congress party.

His statements, quoted by Moscow radio, appeared to be another shot in the Soviet-Chinese ideological battle over whether war is inevitable in the struggle for world communism.

"Only fools and madmen can call for a new world war today," Khrushchev said.

"We have no intention of yielding to provocations such as the U.S. U-2 flight and swerving from the fundamental course of our foreign policy."

"This is a policy of co-existence, a policy of strengthening peace, reducing international tension and abolishing the cold war."

Cabinet secretary Etsuhiro Shima told reporters opponents of the treaty planned to surround the U.S. embassy to prevent U.S. ambassador Douglas MacArthur II from leaving and to "confine" Fujiyama to block the exchange physically.

A likely site for such a mill would be at Union Bay.

Defence Purpose Stressed

OTTAWA (CP)—Nuclear weapons for American jet interceptors likely will be stored at some Canadian bases, informants said Tuesday.

These will be purely defensive weapons similar to the nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile. They would be used only in event of an attack on North America.

FEARLESS STATEMENT

Authorities pointed to this statement made Friday in the Commons defence committee by Defence Minister Pearson:

"At the present time negotiations are proceeding with the United States for the general use of Canadian forces (of American nuclear warheads) and the storing of atomic weapons in Canada for the use either by United or Canadian forces."

FIRST REPORT

This was the first announcement that nuclear weapons stored in Canada will be for the use of American as well as Canadian forces.

For instance, on Jan. 18 this year, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said "nuclear weapons will not be used by the Canadian forces except as the Canadian government decides and in the manner approved by the Canadian government."

NO MENTION

There was no mention of use of nuclear weapons stored in Canada by American forces.

Without a Canada-U.S. provision for American interceptors to re-arm with nuclear weapons at Canadian bases, the U.S. planes would have to return much farther south to their own bases.

NOT FOR SAC

Informants said the government has no intention, however, of permitting storage of thermo-nuclear weapons at Canadian bases for the U.S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command bombers.

The statements were made by Garth Robert Allison, who is charged with murdering Harold Eugene Cordoni, an Oakalla prison guard, last Nov. 16.

Defence counsel Alex MacDonald sought to introduce the statement Tuesday during the second day of Allison's second trial. The first was declared a mistrial.

Crown prosecutor T. K. Fisher objected when defence counsel asked what Allison had said while under influence of the drug.

"The danger of testimony of this nature," he said, "is that we may get only part of the picture of what happened."

NANAIMO—A resolution endorsed recently by the Vancouver Island Union of Municipalities received a closer inspection by Nanaimo city council and will probably have much more study before the provincial convention in New Westminster in September.

Aldermen Douglas Greer and John Cook represented Nanaimo at the recent meeting and reported that the convention has passed a resolution regarding the use of judges of supreme and county courts on conciliation boards.

Ald. Greer felt that such a person was suited for this job because of his training in taking evidence in an unbiased point of view.

Aldermen George Bryce and Jack Parker both took strong exception to such a move and the council will watch for the provincial agenda of resolutions to come out before taking any further action regarding a stand pro or con.

SEATTLE LINK

"Using the Victoria-Bellingham route, Seattle would be within 2½ hours transportation time of Victoria," he added. "A direct trip between Victoria and Seattle by hydrofoil could be made inside two hours."

The route to be used will be by Trial Island to the southern tip of Lopez Island, and then past Fidalgo Island through the pass between Cypress and Guemeso Islands and into Bellingham harbor.

Crew of the hydrofoil will be a pilot, an engineer and a steward or stewardess.

D. Murray Mason, west coast vice-president of Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co., said the Flying Fish fare would be about $2.50 for a single trip.

Slim Hope for One

Gale Drowns Forest Youths

B.C. Forest Service officials last night were clinging desperately to a slim hope that one of four men thrown from a department boat at Stuart Lake may still be alive.

Stalin Order Started War

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pavel Monat, formerly a high-ranking Communist intelligence officer, said Tuesday that Josef Stalin personally gave the command for the North Korean army to invade South Korea.

Fined for Speeding

Flying Phil's Son Chip Off Old Block

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Robert John Gagliardi, elder son of British Columbia's highways minister, is following in his father's tire treads. Robert, who returned here recently after attending university in Texas, matched dad's driving record Tuesday when he received a licence suspension and fine on his third speeding conviction. "It was mom's new car," Robert explained to the magis-

Bodies of three others have been recovered but only one had been positively identified early this morning.

One of the four youths, members of a forest service inventory survey crew, is reported to be from Vancouver Island.

The three are believed to have drowned during a violent storm on Monday night while returning by riverboat to Fort St. James, some 360 miles north of Vancouver.

DOG SURVIVES

Hope that the fourth member of the party may be alive stems from the fact that a dog which accompanied the party was found alive, and apparently unharmed, on a beach close to where flotsam from the wreck was found. It is strengthened by the fact that the man was probably wearing a lifejacket, although lifejackets failed to save the lives of his companions.

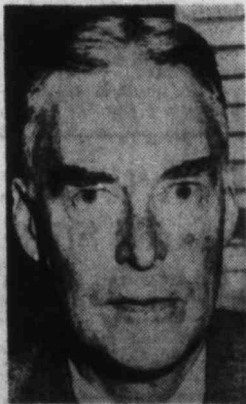

Officials said the party consisted of one graduate forester, age 25, and three forest technicians age about 20. The four were summer workers. Searchers who combed the waters of the 40-mile-long lake yesterday after wreckage of the craft was sighted by a passing boat were scheduled to go out again at daybreak today.

TRAGIC MEMORY

It was beside the same lake some four years ago that a forest service marking-crew employee became separated from the rest of his party, got lost and died of exposure after a days-long search which utilized departmental searchers, the RCMP and Indian trackers.

Forest officials said they did not know the inventory crew was overdue at its base until the remains of the 22-foot craft were spotted late yesterday. They said they were first notified of the tragedy at 4:30 p.m.

Stuart Lake is known for its awesome and sudden storms and is treated with respect by seasoned boatmen.

CHRISTIAN HERTER
... takes blame

Herter Admits:

Japanese Feeling Misjudged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian Herter conceded yesterday that he and other U.S. officials failed to anticipate the magnitude and severity of anti-American riots that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

He also said the Eisenhower administration is abandoning high-level, personal diplomacy in favor of increased emphasis on old-style diplomatic association.

Under sharp questioning by inquiring senators, Herter said any incorrect evaluation of anti-American feeling in Japan stemmed from a "collective judgment" by top officials of the administration in which the White House concurred. But he said he personally was willing to take the blame.

Japanese Mobs Plan Force to Halt Treaty

TOKYO (CP)—Emperor Hirohito put the imperial seal yesterday to the bitterly controversial United States-Japan security treaty soon after Premier Nobusuke Kishi's cabinet gave it final approval.

All that remains to bring the treaty into effect is for the U.S. Senate to ratify it and for the American and Japanese governments to exchange ratification documents. Screaming leftist mobs, seeking to block the treaty, clamped a four-hour shutdown on transportation throughout Japan.

The planned time and place for the exchange of the ratifications was shrouded in secrecy in an attempt to foil the premier's opponents.

Plane Hits House, Three Cling to Life

MONTREAL (CP)—Three men were seriously injured Tuesday night when their light plane crashed into a house at the east end of Montreal Island, and burned. It was not known whether anyone was in the house, which was demolished.

Real Estate Fraud Hinted

Investigation of the possibility of fraud in large-scale lower mainland real estate transactions is being undertaken by the B.C. attorney-general's department.

The case is said to involve more than two dozen companies which are reported to be operating outside the provincial real estate licensing regulations.

Unofficial estimates are that the transactions may involve close to $2,000,000.

The case could develop into one of the biggest real estate scandals in B.C.'s history.

So far no arrests have been made but investigators believe they are close to breaking the case wide open. They are studying records on a wide scale in their search for evidence.

Reports indicate that some of the transactions under scrutiny involve lands in the Ladner area and hotel properties. Startling disclosures are expected by the investigators if they can obtain the evidence they are looking for.

An official of the attorney-general's department yesterday confirmed that the investigation is underway.

'Fools, Madmen Call for War'

New Pulp Mill For Island?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is reported to be negotiating with U.S. interests for construction of a major pulp mill on Vancouver Island.

A likely site for such a mill would be at Union Bay.

LONDON (CP)—Nikita Khrushchev Tuesday jumped into the growing word battle between Peking and Moscow with a forthright declaration that the Soviets believe war can be avoided.

"Whoever does not realize this," he said, "has no faith in the creative power of the working class and underestimates the strength of the socialist camp."

Khrushchev spoke in Bucharest at the congress of the Romanian Congress party. His statements, quoted by Moscow radio, appeared to be another shot in the Soviet-Chinese ideological battle over whether war is inevitable in the struggle for world communism.

"Only fools and madmen can call for a new world war today," Khrushchev said.

"We have no intention of yielding to provocations such as the U.S. U-2 flight and swerving from the fundamental course of our foreign policy..."

"This is a policy of co-existence, a policy of strengthening peace, reducing international tension and abolishing the cold war."

Youths Stole Cars To Put In Time

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 19-year-old youth described as one of a group "who spent their leisure time stealing cars" admitted in police court Tuesday that he stole 23 cars in the past four months.

Murder Trial

Truth Drug Troubles B.C. Court

NEW WESTMINSTER—Decision as to the admissibility of statements made by a man under the influence of truth serum will be handed down by Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean in assize court here today.

The statements were made by Garth Robert Allison, who is charged with murdering Harold Eugene Cordoni, an Oakalla prison guard, last Nov. 16.

Defence counsel Alex MacDonald sought to introduce the statement Tuesday during the second day of Allison's second trial. The first was declared a mistrial.

Crown prosecutor T. K. Fisher objected when defence counsel asked what Allison had said while under influence of the drug.

"The danger of testimony of this nature," he said, "is that we may get only part of the picture of what happened."

Doubleheader 'First'

Twin U.S. Satellites Thunder into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The United States fired a complicated double satellite early today into a high orbit over Russia to make investigation on earth and in space more accurate than ever before.

The U.S. navy announced that the unique "mother and daughter" satellites separated as planned in an orbit that carries them over Russia and the Arctic and Antarctic. They will perform a variety of experiments—mainly as part of a program to give all nations an all-weather, global navigational system.

One satellite is a second transit navigation aid experiment; the other is for measuring solar radiation.

Defence Purpose Stressed

OTTAWA (CP)—Nuclear weapons for American jet interceptors likely will be stored at some Canadian bases, informants said Tuesday.

These will be purely defensive weapons similar to the nuclear warheads for the Borealis anti-aircraft missile. They would be used only in event of an attack on North America.

FEARKE'S STATEMENT

Authorities pointed to this statement made Friday in the Commons defence committee by Defence Minister Peakes:

"At the present time negotiations are proceeding with the United States for the general use by Canadian forces (of American nuclear warheads) and the storing of atomic weapons in Canada for the use either by United or Canadian forces."

FIRST REPORT

This was the first announcement that nuclear weapons stored in Canada will be for the use of American as well as Canadian forces.

For instance, on Jan. 18 this year, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said "nuclear weapons will not be used by the Canadian forces except as the Canadian government decides and in the manner approved by the Canadian government."

NO MENTION

There was no mention of use of nuclear weapons stored in Canada by American forces.

Without a Canada-U.S. provision for American interceptors to re-arm with nuclear weapons at Canadian bases, the U.S. planes would have to return much farther south to their own bases.

NOT FOR SAC

Informants said the government has no intention, however, of permitting storage of thermo-nuclear weapons at Canadian bases for the U.S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command bombers.

Rum-Running U.S. Officers Face Taxes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—The U.S. treasury department announced Tuesday it will take action to collect "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in federal liquor taxes evaded by at least 1,000 naval officers engaged in rum-running from Cuba aboard U.S. military planes.
